

BOARD of VISITORS

2016-17 DIRECTORY

VCU

VIRGINIA COMMONWEALTH UNIVERSITY

Virginia Commonwealth University
Board of Visitors 2016-17

John A. Luke Jr., rector	3
Phoebe P. Hall, vice rector	4
Carol S. Shapiro, M.D., secretary	5
H. Benson Dendy III	6
William M. Ginther	7
Robert D. Holsworth, Ph.D.	8
Colette W. McEachin	9
Ron McFarlane	10
Alexander B. McMurtrie Jr.	11
Tyrone E. Nelson	12
Keith T. Parker	13
The Honorable John W. Snow	14
Jacquelyn E. Stone	15
Shantaram K. Talegaonkar, M.D.	16
G. Richard Wagoner Jr.	17
Steve L. Worley	18

John A. Luke Jr.
Chairman of the board of directors, WestRock

John A. Luke Jr. is chairman of the board of directors of WestRock, a global paper and packaging company in Richmond, Va., a company created in 2015 by the merger of MeadWestvaco Corporation and Rock Tenn Company. He is the former chairman and chief executive officer of MeadWestvaco, where he led the company's transformation into a global packaging partner to the world's most admired brands. His career with MeadWestvaco spanned more than 35 years and a variety of leadership roles from treasurer to corporate marketing to international sales. He also led the company's Brazilian subsidiary, MWV Rigesa. Mr. Luke was chairman and chief executive officer of Westvaco prior to a merger with Mead in 2002.

He began his career with the Procter & Gamble Company, following service as an officer in the U.S. Air Force. He graduated from Lawrence University and earned an M.B.A. from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Luke serves as a board member of several corporations and professional associations including The Bank of New York Mellon, The Timken Company, FM Global and the American Enterprise Institute. He also is a trustee of Virginia Commonwealth University, the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation and The Community Foundation serving Richmond and Central Virginia.

John and his wife, Kathleen, reside in Richmond, Va., and have three children.

Phoebe P. Hall is a highly regarded elder law, estate planning and family law attorney who has been practicing law since 1969. She is CEO and a founding partner in the firm of Hall & Hall PLC. Mrs. Hall's practice areas include estate planning, estate administration, guardianship and conservatorship, elder law, and divorce and custody.

After earning her bachelor's degree from the University of Delaware, Mrs. Hall received her Juris Doctor from Georgetown University School of Law. She has served as substitute judge in the Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court and judge pro tempore in the Circuit Court, and is a seasoned adviser and attorney. She is a member of the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys; the Virginia Academy of Elder Law Attorneys, where she serves on the board of directors; ElderCounsel; the Academy of VA Pension Planners; and the American Bar Association Real Estate, Trusts and Estates Section. She is an accredited veterans benefits attorney and a co-founder of the Metropolitan Richmond Women's Bar Association.

Mrs. Hall is a supporter of the Alzheimer's Association, Virginia Commonwealth University Massey Cancer Center, matters related to autism and the MS walk. She is a member of the Virginia Commonwealth University board of visitors. She previously served as a member of the Alzheimer's Association Greater Richmond Chapter board of directors, a member of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts board of trustees and as president of the MCV/VCU Women's Health Advisory Council. Mrs. Hall's numerous honors and awards include Super Lawyers 2011-present, Legal Elite, Leaders in the Law 2011, Alzheimer's Advocates for 2012, Influential Women of Virginia 2010 and Women of Achievement 2006. She was elected as a fellow of the Virginia Law Foundation in 2014.

Highly regarded among her peers, Mrs. Hall is a popular speaker and writer. Most recently she has been an advocate for issues affecting the elderly and disabled and their caregivers, speaking to bar associations, health care providers and citizens, including at both national and local legal seminars.

Phoebe P. Hall

Co-founder, CEO and senior partner,
Hall & Hall PLC

Carol S. Shapiro, M.D.
Physician, group practice, and instructor,
Georgetown University Hospital

Carol Sadie Shapiro earned her M.D. from the Women's Medical College (now the Hahnemann School of Medicine) in Philadelphia in 1965. She completed an internship at Philadelphia General Hospital in 1965-66 and residencies in general surgery and plastic surgery at Georgetown University Hospital from 1966 to 1972. From 1972 to 1974, she supervised the training of residents, interns and medical students at the hospital. She returned to graduate school at George Mason University, earning the Master of Business Administration in 1996.

Dr. Shapiro ran a solo practice in plastic and reconstructive surgery from 1972 to 2002. Since 2002, she has served in a group practice. She also is a clinical instructor at Georgetown University Hospital in the Department of Plastic Surgery. Over the course of her career, Dr. Shapiro has conducted research, published papers and made presentations on a variety of topics, from plastic surgery to women in medicine to the treatment of physicians with addiction problems.

Dr. Shapiro is professionally active in a number of societies and organizations, including the American Board of Plastic Surgery, the American College of Surgeons, the American Medical Association, the American Medical Women's Association, the American Society of Addiction Medicine and the Medical Society of Virginia. She served on the Virginia Commonwealth University Board of Visitors. She also is a member of the Alumni/ae Association of the Medical College of Pennsylvania, the Prince William County Medical Society and the National Capital Society of Plastic Surgeons. At Potomac Hospital, she has served in a variety of professional capacities since 1972. Currently, she serves on the Professional Practice Committee and on the Board of Trustees of the Potomac Hospital Foundation.

Throughout her career, Dr. Shapiro has been recognized for her service to her profession and the community. Recognition has included the Women Making History Award from the National Museum of Women's History, the Pediatric Primary Care Project Recognition of Outstanding Volunteer Service and several AMA Physician's recognition awards over the period 1972-97. She has been included in "Who's Who in Medicine and Health Care," "Who's Who of American Women" and "Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans," among other publications. In 1993, she was honored with a House Joint Resolution of Commendation from the Virginia General Assembly.

As a senior staff member for two Virginia governors, H. Benson Dendy III has held positions as diverse as secretary of the commonwealth, secretary to the governor's cabinet and special assistant to the governor. He began his career in state government in 1978 as a legislative assistant to the lieutenant governor. Over the course of seven legislative sessions, he advocated for two governors' agendas in the General Assembly. He served on transition committees for Govs. Mark Warner and Terry McAuliffe.

Mr. Dendy has been appointed and reappointed to the board of trustees of the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation, a state agency, by five Virginia governors of both parties. He currently serves as chairman of the board of trustees. In 2003, he was appointed by the secretary of the interior to the federal Jamestown 400th Commemoration Commission and served as the federal commission's vice chairman.

Mr. Dendy serves on the board of directors of the Containerization & Intermodal Institute. In 2002, he was appointed by Gov. Mark Warner to the Council on the Southern Community of the Southern Growth Policies Board. He served on the board of trustees of the Valentine Richmond History Center for 14 years and is a director of the Virginia YMCA. He serves on the board of directors of the Maymont Foundation. He is a former member of the board of trustees of the American Council of Young Political Leaders, a core grantee of the U.S. Department of State that conducts international exchange programs for young governmental leaders. He is a member of the honorary council to the St. George's Foundation in Bermuda. Mr. Dendy also has extensive experience in helping international corporations develop business in the United States.

In addition to serving as president of Vectre Corporation, Mr. Dendy is also a member of its board of directors. He has served as chairman of The Advocacy Group, the premier municipal, state, federal and international government and public affairs organization in the world, and currently serves on its board of directors. Mr. Dendy was one of the first 24 government relations professionals nationwide to complete the State Government Affairs Council's professional certificate program in 2012.

Mr. Dendy graduated from the University of Richmond, magna cum laude, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. A member of Second Presbyterian Church, Mr. Dendy serves as an elder. He and his wife, Stacey, have three children. The family enjoys skiing at Wintergreen and spending time in the summer at Virginia Beach.

H. Benson Dendy III
President, Vectre Corporation

William M. Ginther

Former corporate executive vice president of retail banking, SunTrust/Crestar

William M. Ginther earned a B.S. in Business Management in 1969 and an M.S. in Business in 1974 from Virginia Commonwealth University. He began his full-time banking career in 1970 as a management trainee in the United Virginia Services Corp. and went on to perform 37 years of service at SunTrust Bank, formerly Crestar. There he managed several large projects and oversaw the technology team that designed the bank's customer information system, as well as the Internet development team. In addition, Mr. Ginther launched a mentoring program for minority employees in 1996, which led the way to today's diversity councils. Before retiring in 2007, he managed the successful consolidation of Citizens Bank of Maryland into SunTrust Bank.

Mr. Ginther has given back generously to his alma mater over the years, having served on both the boards of the School of Business Alumni Society and the VCU Alumni Association. He is a founding trustee of the School of Business Foundation and a 2000 recipient of the VCU Alumni Star award. He and his wife, Marsha, support the Ginther Family Merit Scholarship in the School of Business and many other initiatives across the university.

Chair of the Visual Arts Center of Richmond from 2002 to 2008, Mr. Ginther also served as a board member of Virginians for the Arts and as a court-appointed special advocate for CASA Richmond, where he spoke for the best interests of children brought before the Richmond Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court as a result of abuse and/or neglect. He also has received numerous professional awards, including the "Industry Impact Award" from the Greater Richmond Technology Council.

Mr. Ginther and his wife live in Midlothian, Va., and have two children.

Robert D. Holsworth, Ph.D., is a managing principal of DecideSmart, a firm that provides strategic advice, research and civic engagement services to public sector organizations, nonprofits and private sector companies with public policy and governmental interests. Prior to joining the company, he was the founding director of the Center for Public Policy and the L. Douglas Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs at Virginia Commonwealth University. He also served as dean and interim dean of the College of Humanities and Sciences, the largest unit of the university serving more than 14,000 undergraduate and graduate students.

A number of major governmental initiatives have benefited from Dr. Holsworth's service in key positions. He acted as executive director of the Governor's Commission on Efficiency and Effectiveness from 2002-04, a comprehensive analysis of the business practices of Virginia state government that became the foundation of an extensive governmental reform package. Dr. Holsworth worked as director of the Virginia Executive Institute, the leading professional development program for state executives in the commonwealth. And, he served as co-staff director of the Commission on the Future of Virginia's Urban Areas, a gubernatorial commission that examined how Virginia's urban areas could become flourishing parts of regional economies.

Dr. Holsworth has considerable experience designing, leading and managing complex survey research studies, regional data initiatives and countywide civic engagement projects. His observances on national and Virginia politics have appeared in The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Post and The New York Times. In 2011, Campaigns and Elections magazine named him one of Virginia's 100 influentials.

He holds a bachelor's degree from Seton Hall University and a Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Dr. Holsworth has one daughter and lives in Richmond, Va.

Robert D. Holsworth, Ph.D.
Managing principal, DecideSmart

Colette W. McEachin
Deputy commonwealth's attorney,
City of Richmond

Colette W. McEachin is the Deputy Commonwealth's Attorney for the City of Richmond and has been a leader among prosecutors across the state and has been tapped within her office to handle many of the high profile cases coming before that office.

She is a member of the Board of Governors of the Virginia State Bar and is frequently called upon to teach continuing education courses for her colleagues. Ms. McEachin has also served as a guest lecturer at the Virginia Commonwealth University L. Douglas Wilder School for Government and Public Affairs at and has served on honors panels for the criminal justice program.

Ms. McEachin earned her B.A. from Brown University and her law degree from the University of Virginia.

Ms. McEachin and her husband, Donald, a state senator, live in Henrico County with their three daughters.

Ron McFarlane is a graduate from the University of Virginia with a degree in science education. He later enrolled in the School of Pharmacy at Virginia Commonwealth University where he met his now wife, Nancy. They graduated in 1980, both with pharmacy degrees, and were married that fall. Nancy and Ron have lived in Raleigh, N.C., since 1984.

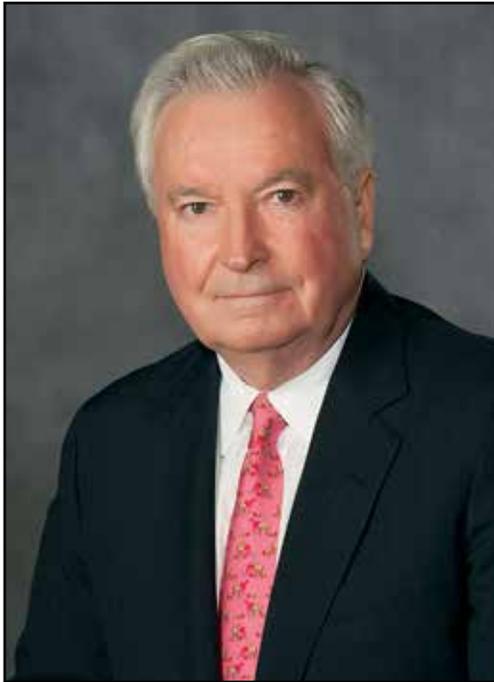

Mr. McFarlane has held the position of chief operating officer for MedPro Rx, Inc., a Raleigh-based specialty pharmacy, since June 2003. He has served as vice chair and currently secretary on the board of WakeUP Wake County, a citizen's group focused on the water, transit, schools and growth issues in the area. Mr. McFarlane has been a volunteer coach for various YMCA Youth Sports programs since moving to Raleigh in 1984. He also served on the National Board of Directors for the Myasthenia Gravis Foundation from 2001 to 2009 and was also the foundation's vice chair from 2005 to 2009. He is a former board member of the local Wake County AIDS Service Agency. He sits on the National Advisory Council for the VCU School of Pharmacy and on the Medical College of Virginia Foundation.

Nancy was elected mayor of Raleigh in October 2011. While living in Raleigh, they have raised three children: Katie, Emily and Reynolds.

Ron McFarlane

Group president of Specialty Infusion Services, Diplomat Pharmacy

Alexander B. McMurtrie Jr.
Attorney, McMurtrie, Grubbs and Associates

A Richmond, Va., native, Alexander B. McMurtrie Jr. earned a B.S. from the University of Notre Dame, where he currently serves on the President's Council and the advisory board of the Institute for Church Life, and his J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center, for which he is a trustee.

Mr. McMurtrie graduated from law school in 2 ½ years and went to work in the appellate court section of the National Labor Relations Board. He began practicing law in Richmond with the firm of Bremner Merhige, and a partnership in the firm of McMurtrie, Grubbs and Associates followed. Overall, Mr. McMurtrie has devoted more than 40 years to the legal profession, specializing in partnership, corporation, trusts and estates, and trial work.

He also made time for a career in public service. He represented Chesterfield County in the Virginia House of Delegates from 1971 to 1981 and served on the State Board of Corrections under former Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder. Virginia Gov. Bob McDonnell also recently appointed Mr. McMurtrie to the Governor's Commission on Government Reform and Restructuring.

Mr. McMurtrie and his wife, Margaret Hillenbrand McMurtrie, have two sons and reside in Richmond, Va.

Tyrone E. Nelson serves as the seventh pastor of Sixth Mount Zion Baptist Church in Richmond, Virginia. The church has more than 140 years of rich history yet continues to adapt to the needs of the 21st century. With the Rev. Nelson as leader, the congregation has made it its focus to address issues that impact the community. His ministry started with his service as a youth minister for two churches and the position of director of youth and evangelism ministries for the Baptist General Convention of Virginia.

The Rev. Nelson has a heart for working to meet the needs of people, especially those who are overlooked and underprivileged. In November 2011, the Rev. Nelson was elected by the citizens of Henrico County (Varina District) to serve as its supervisor. He is the first African-American elected official in the district's history and only the second African-American supervisor in Henrico County.

A native of Richmond, after completing his public school education, the Rev. Nelson earned his Associate of Science in business administration from J. Sargeant Reynolds Community College, a Bachelor of Science in business administration from Virginia Commonwealth University and a Master of Divinity from the Samuel DeWitt Proctor School of Theology at Virginia Union University.

He is married to the former Sharaza Cotman and has three children, Tyrone Jr., Sydney and Makenzie.

Tyrone E. Nelson

Pastor, Sixth Mount Zion Baptist Church

Keith T. Parker
General manager and CEO,
Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority

Keith T. Parker is the general manager and chief executive officer of the Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority, the nation's ninth-largest transit system that includes heavy rail, bus and paratransit services. Mr. Parker took the helm of MARTA on December 10, 2012.

Mr. Parker's career has included public and private sector experiences in diverse communities around the country. Most recently, he served as CEO for transit systems in San Antonio, Texas, and Charlotte, North Carolina. Under his leadership, both transit systems enjoyed some of the highest ridership increases in the country, while maintaining some of the lowest costs.

Since his arrival in Atlanta, Mr. Parker and his team have balanced the budget, improved efficiencies, increased bus and rail service, enhanced the customer experience and restored pride among MARTA employees and staff. MARTA is now recognized as one of the most innovative transit authorities in the nation.

In February 2016, he was appointed by President Barack Obama to serve on the National Infrastructure Advisory Council, which provides insight and guidance on the security of the critical infrastructure sectors and their information systems across the United States. The council comprises 30 members appointed by the president from private industry, academia and state and local government.

The American Public Transportation Association recognized Mr. Parker as the Outstanding Public Transportation Manager in October 2015. METRO Magazine named him as one of its 20 Most Influential People of the Decade in 2014 in recognition of his ability to transform agency efficiencies, implement cost-effective measures and engender a culture of innovation in diverse environments.

Active and engaged in civic and charitable organizations, Mr. Parker serves the community on various national and local boards of directors, including the Intelligent Transportation Society of America, the American Public Transportation Association, the Atlanta Convention and Visitors Bureau and Goodwill Industries.

A native of Petersburg, Va., Mr. Parker holds an M.B.A. from the University of Richmond, as well as a Master of Urban and Regional Planning and a B.A. in political science from Virginia Commonwealth University. He also holds a professional certification with the American Institute of Certified Planners. In 2015, he received VCU's Alumni Star Award. Mr. Parker is married with three children.

The Honorable John W. Snow is an accomplished economist, academic and CEO. Born in Toledo, Ohio, Mr. Snow, 73rd U.S. Treasury Secretary, has been an influential figure in not only the United States, but also the global community.

During his tenure as Secretary of the Treasury from February 2003 until June 2006 under President George W. Bush, Mr. Snow led the Bush administration's economic team and was its guiding voice on domestic and global economic issues.

He steered the effort to pass the historic 2003 Jobs and Growth Tax Relief Act, a signature achievement that significantly lowered tax rates on individuals, as well as on capital investment, leading to the strong economic recovery enjoyed during his tenure.

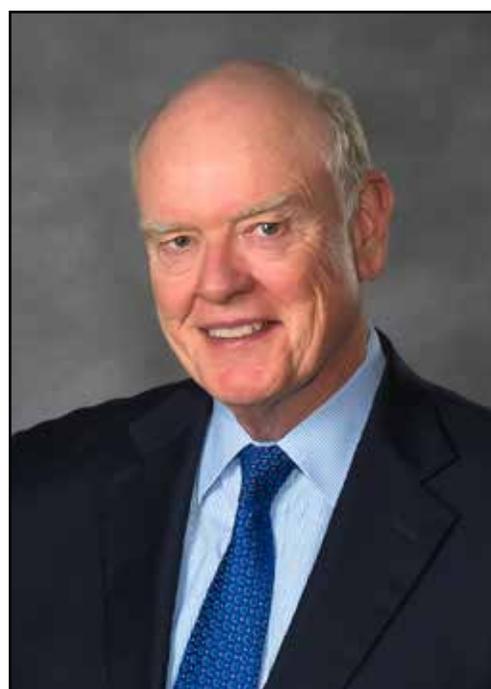

Mr. Snow's influence extends to the international economic community as well. He initiated new tactics to tackle the financial war on terror and founded an office dedicated to that task at the U.S. Department of the Treasury.

While boasting several significant economic achievements, his expertise is not limited to economics. From 1994 through 1996, he served as chairman of the Business Roundtable, the foremost business policy group comprised of 250 chief executive officers of the nation's largest companies. During that period, he played a considerable role in supporting passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement and working on the deficit reduction agreement. He also served on the Executive Committee of the Business Council.

Prior to becoming Treasury Secretary, Mr. Snow held the position of chairman and chief executive officer of global transportation company CSX Corporation for more than a decade. He also held several high-ranking positions in the Department of Transportation during the Ford Administration where he led the efforts to deregulate the motor carrier, airline, barge and rail industries.

Mr. Snow did his undergraduate work at Kenyon College and the University of Toledo, from which he received a B.A. in 1962. He went to earn a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Virginia, a master's degree from The Johns Hopkins University and a law degree from The George Washington University.

Mr. Snow serves on the boards of Cerberus Capital Management LP, where he is non-executive chair, Marathon Petroleum Corporation, Lender Processing Services, Inc., Armada Hoffer Properties, Inc. and International Consolidated Airlines Group.

The Honorable John W. Snow
Chairman, Cerberus Capital Management, and former U.S. Secretary of the Treasury

Jacquelyn E. Stone
Partner, McGuireWoods

Jacquelyn E. Stone earned a B.A. from the University of Virginia in 1980 and a J.D. from Harvard Law School in 1985. After graduating from law school, she joined McGuireWoods, where she concentrates on general business matters on behalf of corporate clients, legislative matters before the Virginia General Assembly and regulatory issues before state and federal agencies. She also advises corporate clients on a wide range of immigration matters. She served as chair of the McGuireWoods Recruiting Committee and firmwide hiring partner for more than 15 years, and she is a former member for the firm's board of partners. She currently chairs the McGuireWoods Diversity Committee.

Ms. Stone has been recognized for several years as a Virginia Super Lawyer by Super Lawyers magazine and as one of Virginia's "Legal Elite" in government relations and immigration law by Virginia Business magazine. In 2000, she was honored by the YWCA at the Outstanding Woman Awards. Five years later, Ms. Stone received the Women of Achievement Award from the Metropolitan Richmond Women's Bar Association and the Themis Award from the DuPont Women's Lawyer Network in recognition of her initiative in creating opportunities for women lawyers to grow in the legal profession.

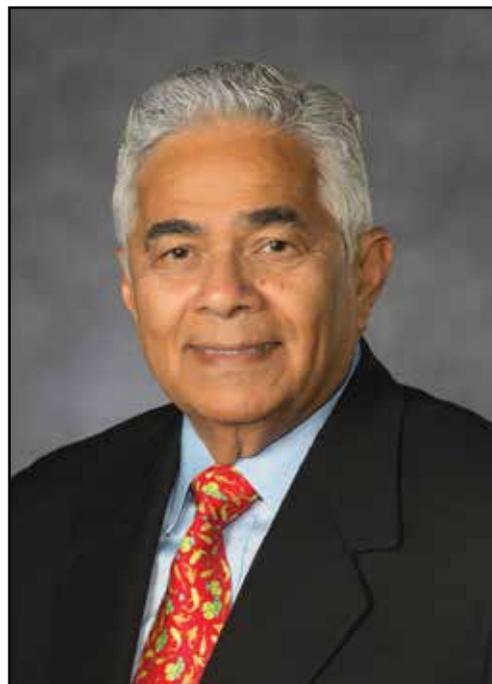

Ms. Stone has served on a number of state boards and commissions, including the Virginia Commission for the Arts, the Science Museum of Virginia board of trustees, the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia, the State Commission on Population Growth and Development, the State Council on Local Debt and the Virginia Commission on Competitive and Equitable Tax Policy. She currently holds leadership positions with the CenterStage Foundation, the Greater Richmond Chamber of Commerce Foundation and Venture Richmond.

Ms. Stone resides in Richmond, Va.

Dr. Shantaram K. Talegaonkar is a retired ophthalmologist who served the Hopewell community for more than 28 years at the Eye Clinic of Virginia, Petersburg Eye Center and Virginia Eye Institute. Dr. Talegaonkar's professional history also includes several appointments and honors. In July 2016, Gov. Terry McAuliffe appointed him to the Virginia Commonwealth University Board of Visitors, and he has previously served on the Old Dominion Eye Bank Advisory Board, the Hindu Center of Virginia Board of Trustees, the Virginia Museum of Fine Art Multicultural Advisory Committee and Board of Trustees, as well as the Shepherd's Center of Virginia Board of Trustees. Dr. Talegaonkar also served as chairman for the India Chair Initiative at VCU and received the Humanitarian Award from the Virginia Center for Inclusive Communities.

Dr. Talegaonkar received both his M.B.B.S. and M.S. in ophthalmology from G.R. Medical College in Gwalior, India. He is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh and is a diplomat of the American Board of Ophthalmology.

Dr. Talegaonkar is married to Dr. Sunita Talegaonkar, a pediatrician, and they reside in Richmond, Va. They have three children, a son and two daughters, and are soon to be grandparents as well.

Shantaram K. Talegaonkar, M.D.
Board-certified ophthalmologist

G. Richard Wagoner Jr.
Former chairman and CEO,
General Motors

Rick Wagoner retired from General Motors Corporation in August 2009 after a 32-year career. He served as GM chief executive officer from June 2000 through March 2009, and was also chairman from May 2003 through March 2009. Other senior positions that Mr. Wagoner held at GM include president and chief operating officer, executive vice president/president of North American Operations, executive vice president/chief financial officer and head of worldwide purchasing, and president and managing director of General Motors do Brasil.

Mr. Wagoner's current business activities include serving as a director of publicly traded Invesco and The Washington Post Company, and privately held Aleris Corporation, Rivian Automotive, and Dematic SARL, where is he chairman. He is on the advisory boards of AEA Investors and Jefferies Investment Banking and Capital Markets Group, and is a senior advisor to Riverwood Capital. He also advises a number of startups and early stage companies. He is a member of the Mayor of Shanghai's International Business Leaders Advisory Council, and was formerly a member and director of The Business Roundtable and The Business Council.

Mr. Wagoner was recently appointed to a four-year term on the Virginia Commonwealth University Board of Visitors. He just completed a 12-year term on the board of trustees of Duke University, where he was chair of the board for the last two years and vice chair for the prior four. He also served on the Duke University Health System Board, and continues as a member of Duke's Fuqua School of Business Advisory Board. He was previously on the Detroit Country Day School board of trustees from 1994-2012, and served on a number of community boards in the Detroit area over the years.

Born in Wilmington, Del., on Feb. 9, 1953, and raised in Richmond, Va., Mr. Wagoner attended Henrico County public schools. He attended Duke University, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and graduated summa cum laude in 1975. He then attended Harvard Business School, graduating with a master's degree in business administration in 1977. Mr. Wagoner received an Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters Degree from VCU in 2011.

Steve L. Worley is the former president and CEO of LCMC Health and Children's Hospital. After 34 years he is now semi-retired and serves the LCMC Board of Trustees as a senior adviser. He joined the staff of Children's Hospital in 1980 as an Assistant Administrator. Children's is a 247-bed pediatric academic medical center located in New Orleans with referrals from throughout Louisiana and the Gulf South Region. Steve was promoted to Chief Operating Officer of Children's in 1982 and became president and CEO in 1986. With the affiliation between Children's Hospital and Touro Infirmary in 2009, Mr. Worley was appointed president and CEO of LCMC Health, the parent corporation, which includes the affiliates Children's Hospital, Touro Infirmary (a 347-bed adult hospital), the temporary 390-bed Interim Louisiana Hospital that transitioned into the 430-bed University Medical Center (both academic teaching hospitals), a 75-bed psychiatric hospital at the Children's Calhoun Campus, and the 260-bed retirement center, Woldenberg Village.

Prior to joining Children's Hospital, Mr. Worley was director of management engineering with American Health Services, Inc., in Washington, D.C. He received his Master of Science in Business Administration and his undergraduate degree from Virginia Commonwealth University. Steve is the current chairman of the Board of The Blood Center for Southeast Louisiana, past-chairman of The Louisiana Hospital Association, past-chairman of The Metropolitan Hospital Council of New Orleans, and past-chairman of the Board of The Child Health Corporation of America. He is an active member of The Children's Hospitals International Executive Forum and The Board of Regents of Our Lady of Holy Cross College. He is a past board member of The New Orleans Regional Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scouts of America, Inroads/New Orleans, and The National Association of Children's Hospitals & Related Institutions, Inc., as well as a past member of The Institute of Healthcare Executives & Suppliers. He also currently serves on the VCU Board of Visitors, the Board of Directors of VCU Health System, and the Board of Directors of the Virginia Premier Health Plan.

Mr. Worley and his wife, Patty, have two children, Laura and Cliff, and five grandchildren. When time permits, they enjoy visiting the Gulf Coast at Orange Beach, Ala. He also is an avid skeet and trap shooter who shoots competitively during the season.

Steve L. Worley

Senior adviser to the Board of Trustees,
LCMC Health

